Rain

The rain drops from the sky.
It hits the car.
It hits the window.
It hits the sidewalk.

The rain builds and makes loud sounds.
Drip, drop, splash.
It falls onto the house.
It falls onto the playground.
It falls onto the school.

The rain slowly stops.
The children go out to play.
They forget about the rain as the sun dries it all up.

Sample Youth Literature

I remember the day my sister was born. I was 3 years old. They brought her home from the hospital and I could not believe how little she was. I remember she was wrapped in a little pink blanket. She didn't even do anything when she got home. I thought that she would at least talk. She only looked at me and said nothing.

Sample Science Fiction

The year is 2568. My robot dog barks loudly. I remember that my mom said that over 500 years ago people had actual living dogs. They had fur and they were actual living things. I am not sure about that. I think that might just be a myth.
